THE "WANDERER" STATION

is a kind of a space engineering masterpiece. Huge as a city, crowded with laboratories, power plants, residential complexes and cells for test subjects (and experimental "results") maintenance. Capable of inter- and intra-system movement, well-protected inside and outside.

At the same time, the security routine at the station itself is practically no different from the one of a prison camp. Strict control of access levels, forced zoning, paranoid surveillance and a rich system of fines. The test subjects are delivered from planetary prisons, and if someone from the staff is transgressing the station rules, he can also end on the lab bench.

The crew of the Lesser Express Shuttle No. 44 arrives at the station after a certain asteroid falls into the hands of local scientists in 2114. This asteroid comes with a very curious substance contained in its rock...

Max Carnage, as a person who has been part of the E.S.F. group, is well versed in any type of weapon.

ABSOLUTELY ANY.

You can shoot it? Hit someone on the head? Stick in someone's liver? Throw at the enemy? Push the button and make things go "boom!"?

FINE. GIVE IT TO MAX - and observe the result from a safe distance.

And there's plenty of "it" at the "Wanderer" station.
